Who operates the clinics?
Services at BHCs are provided by faculty, staff and students from the UNMC Munroe-Meyer Institute who are specially trained in behavioral pediatric psychology. Clinical services are supervised by licensed psychologists.

How is treatment conducted?
Usually, both the child and parents attend all sessions. During the first session, parents are interviewed to determine the nature of the issue and a potential course of treatment. Additional sessions are usually scheduled weekly or every other week. The number of additional sessions depends on the nature and severity of the issue, but between five and 10 visits is common.

Will my health insurance cover it?
Services at a BHC are covered under the mental health portion of most insurance plans, including Medicaid. If you are not sure about coverage, contact your insurance carrier or the benefits office at your place of employment and ask about your coverage. Individuals seen at a BHC are registered as patients in the UNMC Munroe-Meyer Institute system, which is responsible for all billing and record management.

“The behavioral therapist with the UNMC Munroe-Meyer Institute was able to provide us with treatment options. It was an enormous relief that gave us the glimmer of hope we needed.”

– mother of pediatric patient
A Behavioral Health Clinic (BHC) is an integrated speciality clinic that provides services to children, adolescents and their families for academic, behavioral, developmental, emotional and social issues.

A BHC is a cooperative effort between your physician and the psychology department at the University of Nebraska Medical Center Munroe-Meyer Institute in Omaha.
